OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON D. C., April 15th.

The principal interest here centered in the work of the Committees. The Emma Mine case is still being examined into and a number of witnesses have sworn that the Mine is as valuable as it was represented to be when put upon the English market, and that mismanagement is the cause of its not now being in good condition. The witness Lyons has been pretty well discredited and on the whole it is considered that general Schenck did nothing criminal, but was indiscreet in permitting his name used as a director in the company.

Col. Broadhead was examined before the Committee which is looking into the Whiskey trials at St. Louis, and his testimony confirms that of others in regard to the effect of the Pierrepont letter relative to implicated witnesses. Broadhead says this letter fightened that class of witnesses and will make it more difficult to convict criminated officials.

It has been well established and new proof is added daily, that there was a regular traffic in Post traderships. Orville Grant, Gen. Hendrick, Gen. Rice and Simon Wolf being the principle brokers engaged in the business. They know the value of each Post and made the applicants pay accordingly, the fees ranging from $2,000 to one third and one half interests in the business. No proof is made that Belknap received any part of the fees.

The safe burglary investigation settles conclusively the fact that Babcock instigated that infamous job. Whitely, the ex-detective who swore that Babcock wrote to him while in Florida to come on and manage the affair, has been confirmed by other witnesses, particularly by C. D. Madge chief of the Treasury detectives. He was informed of the intended burglary but it was stated to him that Columbus Alexander and the opponents of the District Ring were the parties who intended to rob the safe. Circumstances induced him to believe that this was not true and he informed Gov. Shepperd and general Babcock of the facts in his possession and offered them two of his men to assist in preventing the burglary, but his assistance was declined. The New York Herald has had White or Miles, now in the Vermont Penitentiary interviewed and he states that Babcock Harrington and himself told over the whole plan together before the burglary and that Babcock afterward deplored its failure.

The Hallett Kelbourn application for a habeas corpus was up before the Chief Justice of the District Court on Wednesday, and was set for Saturday when the argument will commence. Kelbourn has a formidable array of lawyers, including Jere Black, Matt Carpenter and Daw, Voorhees, and the argument of the case will be exhaustive. It is thought that the Supreme Court of the United States will be called on to settle the question finally of whether either house of Congress has the right to imprison for contempt in refusing to answer. The power is conceded to the Senate when setting as a court of impeachment but many of our best lawyers deny it to either House under any other circumstances. The Senate judiciary committee unanmously reported against the House bill for protecting witnesses, upon the ground that it gave imminuity to every class of criminals who agreed to testify. Mess Thurman and Stevenson agreed to the report but introduced a new bill on the subject which more properly provides for such cases than the hasty legislation of the House.

A small steal of only $700,000 has been discovered in the proposed purchase of ground for the extension of the east point of the Treasury. The ground is assessed for taxation at $339000 and valued for sale to the government at $1039,000. It is constantly asserted by property owners here that bonds are assessed at their full value. An effort was made by Ben Hill of Georgia, to have the amount appropriated to pay Government detectives striken from the bill. He supported his motion in a vigorous speech, denouncing the spy system and was sustained by Vance of N. C. The effort failed. The proposal to transfer the Indian Bureau from the Interior to the war department meets with serious opposition and Welshire of Arkansas has introduced a bill to make a new departement with a cabinet officer at the head of it, to take exclusive jurisdiction of the Indians. The Lincoln statute was unveiled in Lincolns Park to-day with appropriate ceremonies; Fred Douglass being the orator of the occasion.

The fight between the friends of Tilden, Bayard Thurman and Hendricks for the nomination at St Louis, waxes warm. Tilden has established a beaureau of correspondence here which furnishes letters free to all democratic papers that will take them. Of course these letters do not reflect public sentiments; but advocate Tilden. Judge Davis General Hancock and Col. Broadhead are talked of as compromise candidates, to be brought forward when the others are exhausted. RENO.

A Missouri youth stole the money wherewith to pay his marriage fee, and when they locked him up for the theft, his bride eloped with a chap who owned a yoke of oxen, three pigs and a silver plated tobacco box. Oh, me!

THE FARMER'S DAUGHTER.

BY ANNIE L. JACK.

She lives within a quiet home,
No model of the graces.
Unknown to culture's higher walks,
Of fashion's giddy places;
A thoughtful girl, so sweet, so wise
With earnest face and loving eyes—
The farmer's gentle daughter.

From morn till eve the little maid
Is busy at her labor—
She sweeps and dusts the old farm house
And helps a poorer neighbor;
No gossip will she listen to
[A merit rare, I own to you]
So lives the farmer's daughter.

On baking days her tiny hands
Are busy with the making;
No bread more light and sweet than hers,
Was ever made by baking.
She churns the butter golden sweet,
And keeps the dairy white and neat—
The farmer's useful daughter.

Her garden is an Eden fair,
Abloom with pinks and roses—
She knows the name of every flower—
And makes some gorgeous posies—
Grows peas, and radishes and cress.
And corn, and squash, and herbs to press—
The farmer's happy daughter.

Long may she bravely smile on us—
Our darling household fairy,
The queen of garden, house and lot,
And princess of the dairy—
To teach us by her pleasant way
To live the things of every day
God bless the farmer's daughter.

A FARTHER'S SACRIFICE.

A Story of French Conscription.

Up four flights of stairs in a house in Paris were three snug little rooms inhabited by the family Roumille. They had only peaked roofs, chimneys and the blue sky to look out upon, but so pleasant were the rooms within, and so neat, and tasteful and sunny, that there was small temptation to turn the eye away from them.

It was evening, and the family was assembled at supper. They were observing a fete and the best gilt china glittered on the table, a little boquet of fresh flowers stood by each glass, and an iced cake, surrounded by a wreath of rosebuds, distinguished the center. Around the board set the jolly, affectionate old father, the delicate and loving mother, their brave, handsome boy, and one other not now belonging to the family, but soon to be called daughter by the parents, and wife by the son. She was a gentle, loving young girl, looking with affectionate respect upon the old folks, and with fond, modest eye upon her lover.

'Son,' said the mother, 'for twenty-one years this night has thou been the delight of my heart. Thou hast gladdened my eyes every day thou has lived. Ah! that thou wert but a few years younger, that I might be sure of thee longer!'

'Wife, dost thou not see that Marion takes thy word as a reproach to her?' said the father. 'Thou would'st have thy son all for thyself, thou sayest.'

'I do not mean that I would not have my child Marion for my daughter,' she replied. 'No, no! Bless her heart, she need not blush so. And she need not fear. I think even my Robinet happy to be her husband. But the conscription, father. Our boy is now of age.'

The old man's face grew pale and uneasy.

'Wife,' he said, 'our boy is affectionate to us, true to Marion, and loving to God. If Heaven is but just, he will not draw the fatal lot. Heaven blesses the good.'

'Whom God loveth he chasteneth,' said the mother, with a sigh, and Marion's cheek grew whiter.

'Come, do not darken a sunny day by clouds of fear,' said the young man. 'To-night I can be the happiest fellow alive. Even if to-morrow I draw the wrong number, and must go to fight, I may return to you covered with honors. Will you not be glad and proud then?'

'My son, my son, I have known many a brave boy join those ranks dreaming as thou dost; but few comes back to their mothers. Oh, Robinet, thou art my only son, and if thou art killed I shall be childless.'

'Ah, wife,' said the father, forcing back his tears, 'Could'st thou not be almost happy to be a widow? The conscription spares the only sons of widows. If thy useless old husband were gone, thy could'st keep thy brave young son.'

'Ah, ah,' cried the wife; 'stop the old man's tongue, Put thy hands on his mouth, Marion. I can not bear to hear him talk so.'

'To-night let us be happy,' said Robinet. 'I am not yet a conscript; and I believe I shall escape to-morrow. So, 'begone dull care!' Father, shall I cut my birthday cake?'

'Yes, my boy,' said his father. 'Let us not borrow trouble. It would kill me to see thee among the dissolute soldiery driven to slaughter! I will no, no, I can not think of it. Yes, cut thy cake, but do not harm those pretty buds. Marion placed them there in token of how she will round thy life with pleasures. Eh, Marion? Each bud for a kiss or kind word, eh?'

Marion wiped her eyes and smiled blushingly. Cheerfulness was restored, and the happy family gave themselves up to enjoyment of each other, the secret thought that perhaps it was for the last time making every voice tenderer.

On the next day the drawing was to take place. Father and son proceeded to the place of decision. The son, with white cheeks and dilating eye, drew while the father stood by, his usually jovial form trembling with agonizing apprehension. It was a fatal number! and with a groan of despair the old man fell upon his son's neck.

'Oh, my boy!' he said, 'I can not let thee go! I can not see thee driven to slaughter! Thy mother's heart will be desolate. I can not, no, God forgive me, I can not.'

He wrung his son's hand, and, shaking his head at the few brave, consoling words Robinet's trembling lips uttered, he stopped them short by kissing him tenderly. He then went out, with a gesture forbidding any one to follow him.

'The mother will weep over her son,' said a by-stander—Marion's father, 'but an old man, like an old dog, goes alone to grieve. He, thy poor old father, idolizes thee, boy. Ah, Robinet Roumille, there is another—a poor young girl—whose bitterest tears will be secret ones.'

The youth, almost stunned with despair at his fate, returned to tell his mother and Marion. They awaited his arrival, kneeling at the feet of the Holy Mary's image, and praying with agonizing fervency.

Robinet entered quietly, and stood rigid and pale behind them, his eyes large, and his nostrils quivering. The mother turned and looked at him, then fell back in a swoon. Her son raised her, and laid her upon a sofa in slow recovery. Marion clug to his arms, and held one of his hands in hers, weeping bitterly. None asked for the words they could not bear to hear.

'Ah, thy poor father!' the mother murmured, 'I know he is weeping in secret. He was ever slow to show his grief. His heart is breaking like mine. Oh, that I had thy father here! We would mourn together.'

There was a stir below, and a sound of many steps coming up the staircase. It paused at the door. Robinet opened it. They were bringing home his father—dead. He had killed himself that Robinet might be exempt from conscription. He had fallen a sacrifice to an insane idea of duty. Let us not judge him too harshly. He meant well, his brain gave way, he died that his son might live. God is more mereiful than man!

Thus the widow kept her son; but the memory of the father was held in a tender depth of regret, in the forever saddened hearts of both mother and son.

AN EDITOR'S OPINION OF BASE BALL.

An editor, relating his experience, says that the doctor informed him that he needed exercise, and he recommended the national game. The advice was taken. His (the editor's) conclusions are as follows:

That was an eventful chap who first invented base ball. It's such fun. I've played five games, and this is the result:

Twenty seven dollars paid out for things.
One bunged eye—badly bunged.
One broken little finger.
One bump on the head.
Nineteen lame backs.
A sore jaw.
One thumb dislocated.
Three sprained ankles.
Five swelled legs.
One dislocated shoulder, from trying to throw the ball a thousands yards.
Two hands raw from trying to stop hot balls.
A nose sweetly jammed, and five uniforms spoiled from rolling in the dirt at the bases.

I have played two weeks and don't think I like the game. I've looked over the scorer's book, and find that I have broken several bats made one tally, broken one umpire's jaw broken ten windows in adjoining houses killed a baby, smashed a kerosene lamp, broken the leg of a dog, mortally injured the bread-basket of a spectator, and knocked five other players out of time by slinging my bat.

I have used up fifteen bottles of arnica ointment, five bottles of lotions, and half a raw beef, and am so full of pain that it seems as if my limbs were broken bats and my legs the limbs of a dead horse-chestnut.

Why is a young lady, like a bill of exchange? Because she ought to be settled when she arrives at maturity.

An old tombstone in the burying ground at West Lynn, Mass; bears the inscription: "God took the good, too good to stay, and left the bad, too bad to take away.' Rather rough on the mourners.

A CORPSE IN THE AIR.

One of the strangest and most horrible of sensational incidents took place the other day at Puteaux. A party of children who were playing in the environs discovered floating in the air, and partly entangled amid the branches of a tree, a white parcel upborne by means of some twenty or thirty toy balloons, which were attached to it. The attention of the police being called to this singular object, it was brought down and the package opened, which proved to contain the corpse of a new-born infant.

Investigation into the matter brought to light the following facts; The child was that of a poor toymaker and his wife. Just after the confinement of the latter, the husband had died suddenly, and all the household goods and chattels had been seized for rent. The unhappy woman was driven mad by this accumulation of misfortunes; she killed her infant, and then went out and threw herself into the river, leaving behind her a written paper in which she declared her intention of committing suicide, and said that she 'had gotten her baby ready to go up to Heaven.' A sadder tale, with a stranger termination, it would be hard to find. The toy balloons evidently formed part of the dead husband's stock in trade.—Philadelphia Press.

ALPHABET OF PROVERBS.

A gain of prudence is worth a pound of craft.
Boasters are cousins to liars.
Confession of a fault makes amends.
Denying a fault doubles it.
Envy shooteth at others and woundeth herself.
Foolish fears doubles danger.
God reaches us good things by our own hands.
He has hard work who has nothing to do.
It costs more to revenge wrongs than to bear them.
Knavery is the worst trade.
Learning makes a man fit company for himself.
Modesty is a guard to virtue.
Not to hear conscience is the way to silence it.
One hour today is worth two to morrow.
Proud looks make foul work in fair faces.
Quiet conscience gives quiet sleep.
Richest is he that wants least.
Small faults indulged are little thieves.
The boughs that bear most hang lowest.
Upright walking is sure walking.
Virtue and happiness are near kin.
True men make more opportunities than they find.
You never lost by doing a good turn.
Zeal without knowledge is fire without light.

GEN. SANTA ANNA IN HIS OLD AGE.

He lives in the City of Mexico, in a third-rate house of two stories, with courts of not more than twenty feet square, the pavements out of repair, the whole telling the story of poverty. He was seated upon a much-worn sofa, attended by a small-appearing Mexico of middle age, and rose, with some difficulty, in receiving us. He complained considerably of his wooden leg, and also of blindness.

He is an old man of eighty years, very decrepit, yet in full command of his faculties; has a good head and face, not unlike the pictures of Humboldt in old age, with broad temples and an abrupt, square nose, and, at one time, good eyes. He had little to say, but appeared pleased at our visit; and as we told him of the four or five general officers of the Mexican war still living, he listened with interest, but showed no special recognition until the name of Pillow was mentioned, whom he remembered perfectly.

Over the sofa where Santa Anna sat was the picture of a beautiful woman in her fullness of youth and loveliness. This was his wife when both led the fortunes of Mexico. As we passed out the court our attention was called to the figure of a woman of fifty in the window opposite, in plain dress, and devoid of any interesting attribute. This was she whose picture had so interested us, Mrs General Santa Anna.

A pretty little Ohio schoolmarm tried to whip one of her pupils, a boy of fifteen, the other day, but when she commenced operation he coolly threw his arms around her neck and gave her a hearty kiss. She went straight back to her desk, and her face was 'just as red.'

'Oh, why,' exclaimed Ben Butler on hearing of Belknap's fall, "oh, why did I live to see this day?" For our part we can't imagine why. There was certainly no reason or necessity for it.

A fast youth asked a 'Frisco restauranter: 'What have you got?' Almost everything,' was the reply. 'Almost everything? Well, give me a plate of that.' 'Certainly. One plate of hash!' yelled the waiter.

WHO WAS THE BAD BOY.

'Little Annie was a prettily dressed, and standing in front of the house waiting for her mother to go out to ride.

A tidy boy, dressed in coarse clothes, was passing, when the little girl said:

'Come here, boy, and s'ake hands wi' me. I dot a boy dus' like you, named Bobby.'

The boy laughed, shook hands with her, and said;

'I've got a little girl just like you, only she hasn't any little cloak with pussy fur on it.'

Here a lady came out of the door and said:

'Annie, you must not talk with bad boys on the street. I hope you haven't taken anything from her? Go right along and never stop here again, boy!'

That evening the lady was called down to speak with a boy in the hall. He was very neatly dressed, and stood with his cap in hand. It was the enemy of the morning.

'I came to tell you that I am not a bad boy,' he said. 'I go to Sunday-school, and help my mother all I can. I never tell lies, nor quarrel, nor say bad words; and I don't like a lady to call me names, and ask me if I've stolen her little girl's clothes off of her!'

'I'm very glad you're so good,' said the lady, laughing at the boy's earnestness. 'Here's a quarter of a dollar for you.'

'I don't want that!' said Bob, holding his head very high. 'My father works in a foundry, and has lots of money. You've got a boy bigger than I, haven't you?'

'Yes; why?'

'Does he know the Commandments?'

'I'm afraid not very well.'

'Can he say the Sermon on the Mount, and the Twenty-third Psalm, and the Golden Rule?'

'I'm very much afraid he cannot,' said the lady, laughing at the boy's bravery.

'Dosen't he ride on his pony on Sunday instead of going to church?'

'I'm afraid he does, but he ought not, said the lady, blushing a little.

'Mother don't know I came here,' said the bright little rogue. 'but I thought I would just come around and see what kind of folks you were, and—and—I guess mother would rather your boy wouldn't come round our doors, because she don't like little Mamie to talk to bad boys in the street. Good-bye.' And the little boy was gone. —Watchman.

THE OVERLAND.

I stood one fresh June morning, on the quay of Cork, to see some immigrants embark on one of the steamers for Falmouth, on their way to America. The exiles numbered some two hundred—men, women and children. A great crowd had assembled to bid them a last adieu.

It was a scene that one could not witness without heart-pain or tears. Mothers hung upon the necks of their sons; young girls clung to elder sisters; fathers—old, white-headed men—fell upon their knees, and uplifting their thin, trembling hands to heaven, implored the protecting care of the Almighty upon their departing children, whom they would never see again.

'Och,' said one aged woman, with a wrinkled face, and bright, silvery hair, 'och, Dennis, all's gone from me in the wide world when you are gone.'

She clung fondly, as with intense affection, to the arm of a fair-faced young man, evidently about twenty years of age.

'Sure you was all I had left—of seven sons, but you! Oh, Dennis, Dennis, never forget your mother!—don't avourneen—your poor old mother, Dennis!'

The sun shone bright on the sea, and the woman gazed dreamily into the golden distances, then lifted her face to the clear sky, and her soul seemed to glow with a hope that was not quenched by this sad scene of parting.

'We'll all meet in the Overland,' she said, 'if we only have the love of God.'

Dennis supported the old woman toward the ship, and a young woman, weeping, followed them. They all stopped presently beside a small car that had conveyed the young man's baggage.

'I'll send home for both of you, Peggy, in the rise of next year. Be a child to mother till then, and then, avourneen, you'll be my own.'

The time of parting came. Such a scene! Din, noise, turmoil, embraces, kisses, tears. Dennis was gone, and the old woman lay fainting in the arms of the girl whom he loved. The band on the forecastle struck up 'St. Patrick's Day;' the communicating plank was withdrawn, and the steamer moved majestically out into the blue sea.

I turned away; but that scene of parting remained in my memory, and the words of the old Irish mother, as she raised her eyes to the blue sky of early summer that spanned the harbor of Cork.

We'll all meet in the Overland, if we only have the love of God.'

'Bless you,' said John Henry, with tears in his eyes, 'she takes her own hair off so easy that perhaps she dosen't know how it hurts to have mine pulled out.'

A would-be fashionable woman in the West, under sentence of death for murder, has only one request to make. She wants the shade of her dress to match that of the rope. A "corded" silk would be appropriate.

Hillsborough Recorder.

WEDNESDAY.....APRIL 26, 1876.

FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR,

Gen. W. R. Cox,

OF WAKE.

DISTRICT CONVENTION.

A Convention of the Democratic Conservative voters of the Fourth Congressional District will be held in the city of Raleigh on Tuesday the 13th day of June next, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Congress and a Presidential Elector, and selecting two delegates to the St. Louis Convention. A full attendance is earnestly desired. Each county will be entitled to one vote for every one hundred votes and fractional part over fifty given for Merrimon in 1862.

By order of the District Executive Committee.

H. A. LONDON, Jr.,
March 31st. Chairman.

AN APOLOGY.

We mailed on Friday from Raleigh our usual editorial matter, together with the evidence in the indictment of the editor of News, which involving Orange County and Orange County man, we knew would be exceedingly interesting to them. We found on Monday, that our package, mailed on Friday, had not been received, and consequently we go to press without it. The whole shall appear next week.

MONTFORT M'GEEHE.

The name of this gentleman has been prominently mentioned as a candidate for Governor. We have refrained from any expression of preference on this subject because of the equally divided claims of so many excellent gentlemen. It now appears, that the name which general consent had fixed upon was Z. B. Vance. That gentleman seems to be in a fair way to receive the nomination for Congress, in the Charlotte District. In that case, the names of others will receive greater consequence, among which is that of Montfort McGehee of Person county, a gentleman possibly not as much personally known through the State as he ought to be, but who is a specimen of that reserved intellectual and moral wealth which is always to be found in North Carolina when the occasion demands. Mr. McGehee's political record is unimpeachable, his legal acquirements of the profoundest character, his mental culture the most refined, and better than all, his integrity and purity of character stand out in shining contrast to the general depravity of the age.

If he is nominated, no better choice will have been made, for though retiring in habit, Mr. McGehee is an earnest man, a hard worker, a most finished debater, an effective speaker and last, but far from least, a successful farmer.

HON. JOS. J. DAVIS.

Before many weeks, this District will be called upon to express its choice for a candidate for the next Congress, and it is time the people were giving some thought to the subject. The question will occur whether they will continue their confidence in the present setting member from the District, or whether they will make a change.

This last alternative would only be adopted as a mark of disapprobation. Will the people of the County of Orange, as one of the components of the District affix that stigma upon "Joe Davis?" Two years ago, he came into Orange, a stranger to all but a few personal friends. He closed the campaign with the respect, the good will, and to a great degree, with the affections of the whole people. In discussion he was more than the equal of his opponent. In information he was far his superior. In manner, he was plain, familiar, and unassuming, and he bore in his face and in his speech the impress of incorruptible honesty.

His career in Congress has been useful rather than brilliant. Like most of the members from the South, he felt that for perhaps a long time to come yet, his place was in the back ground. He has made no long and labored speeches. He has not made himself conspicuous in debate. Yet he has been industrious in committee work. He has always been in his place, has always voted right, and is among the most earnest advocates of reform.

We do not think it therefore premature or improper to urge upon the people of Orange that they again select their present representative for another term, knowing if they do so, they will give him a larger vote than they did before.

The Baltimore Gazette thinks that the disclosure about Blaine's receiving in a debatable manner, the sum of $64,000 from the Union Pacific Railroad, has wonderfully increased his prospects in the Southern States, and if Morton wishes to increase his chances in that locality, he must also be accused of being engaged in a similar transaction.

THE IMPEACHMENT TRIAL.

Belknap, ex-Secretary of War appeared before the bar of the Senate on Monday the 17th to answer to the impeachment presented by the House of Representatives. His counsel Judge Black and Montgomery Blair, put in a plea to the jurisdiction of the Court that inasmuch as at the time the articles of impeachment were presented the said Belknap was not an officer of the government, but was at the time and is now a private citizen. Time was given until Wednesday to reply to this plea, at which time answer was made that at the time that the resolution of the House was adopted to impeach, Belknap was an officer of the government, and resigned to avoid impeachment. To this replication, time was given until Monday the 24th to put in an answer. The trial then will evidently be a long one.

The case is altogether a new one, the first of the kind in this country, though English practice may furnish precedents. The object of impeachments has been to get rid of unworthy incumbents in office. There is another consequence, and the only one which can apply in Belknap's case, which is, to brand him as infamous, and forever afterwards disqualify him for holding places of honor or trust. It is true, exposure of his guilt ought to effect that without the machinery of a Court of impeachment, but the experience in Grant's insensibility to disgrace of that kind is no warrant that he might not readily take Belknap back into his confidence did not the solemn act of the Court forbid it.

Within the last eight or ten days, there has been some shaping of sentiment on the Republican side in this State in regard to a presidential candidate. Anterior to that time, Conklin seemed to be gaining strength. Perhaps Blaine was still stronger. But the radicals know they must make a show of honesty whether they have it or not. They must rebuke dishonesty whether it is natural or otherwise to do so. But they know the people will not tolerate just such an administration as the present, and to present a candidate who is not presumably pure would be to ensure his defeat. Now, Conkling is the pronounced favorite of Grant for the succession, and he necessarily implies a perpetuation of the present regime in politics and morals. Blaine has recently been exposed in one of the old tricks of the Credit Mobiler, by which he handled a large amount not legitimately coming into his hands, and so he passes down.

If the republicans are really sincere, they would not hesitate to bring out Bristow. But his very honesty is his worst recommendation, for what service could he render office holders? and office holders are the men who control the nomination. So he will probably be passed by. There are of the present probable candidates left, Hayes of Ohio and Jewell of Connecticut. But as Blaine expresses it, "the unknown man" may yet appear to spoil the calculations of all the anticipations of high fortune.

THE SELLING OF WHITE PAUPERS.

The Raleigh News says: The transaction we alluded to a day or two ago as transpiring in Jones county must not be forgotten as one of those trifles of local existence and local interest. They embody a principle in which every white man in the State is concerned. The civil rights bill aimed its deadly blow at Anglo-Saxon supremacy by an effort to consign to one dead level races between whom the Creator has fixed the most significant of outward distinctions and the most striking of mental and moral differences. The transaction in Jones goes farther than this. It subverts, and puts the white race under the foot of the negro. If this is tolerated how far will it not go? A victory once gained, the fruits of it will be secured if possible. Not that the evil can possibly become a general one. But the principle of white degradation and slavery to an inferior race once admitted, the prestige of the white race is broken. It has submitted to the yoke and it has accepted the name and condition of SLAVE!

Who is responsible for this infamous brand upon the glory of the Anglo-Saxon? That party, which in its insane pursuit of power and place levels all distinction of race and condition, abandons all considerations of decency and propriety, ignores all restraints of honesty and morality, and pushes headlong to its goal over the ruin of the nicely constructed fabric of society.

Is this party fit to rule a white race which makes that white race the inferior, the slave of the negro?

We would drop, if we could, these race issues, since all are politically equal. But the Republican party will not permit it, since they constantly obtrude doctrines and principles so offensive that they must not be tolerated.

White men of North Carolina, remember that the poor unfortunate of your race in Jones county, perhaps elsewhere, are put up on the block and sold to negroes!

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON D. C., April 21st.

The regular business of the House has been much delayed by the Kilborn Habeas corpus case and the Belknap impeachment but notwithstanding this, considerable business has been done. The discussion, on the transfer of the Indian Bureau to the War department, is nearly finished and a vote on that question will probably be reached next week. The probabilities are that the resolution recommending the transfer will be adopted. Some progress has been made in the Legislative Executive and Judicial appropriation bill though the republicans continue to fight the proposed reductions at every step. The Kilborn Habeas Corpus has however been the great question for the past week and is still unsettled. Judge Carter issued his writ commanding the Seargent at Arms of the House, (Thompson), to bring Kilbourn body before him. Thompson referred the matter to the House and the House to the Judiciary committee. The committee divided seven reporting in favor of not delivering and three, (two democrats and one republican), in favor of obeying the writ. After a long discussion the minority report was adopted by a vote of 165 to 75.

* * * * * * *

The report from Philadelphia are, the Centennial grounds and buildings are in such an advanced state that everything will be ready by the 10th of May, the day set for the opening. The managers still complain that the American exhibitors are slow in sending their articles and ask that they be forwarded at once. A calculation has been made that it will require one hundred thousand visitors daily to make the exhibitors profitable. The commissioners are severly censured in many quarters for the resolution which closes the grounds on Sunday, and efforts are being made to have this decision reversed. Another complaint is that the railroads have not reduced the cost of round trip tickets sufficiently. The regular fare has only been reduced twenty five per cent. when, it is very justly argued that the price fixed for a round trip ticket should have been fixed at the cost of one regular fare, and the purchaser should be allowed to return by any route selected. As it is the cost of transportation will prevent many persons from going to the exposition.

The candidates for the nomination are working with all their power and the fight was warm. Hendricks secured a victory in the adoption of the platform at Indianopolis and the nomination of Williams who is a Granger, instead of Sanders. Davis is much spoken of here as the proper man for the St. Louis nomination and he has elements of strength possessed by no other person named in this connection. Tilden's friends work with more system than any of the others and are correspondingly gaining ground. Among the Republicans Blaine has been the most prominent, but some late publications regarding his connection with certain railroad schemes will injure him, unless, as his friends say they can be, these charges are successfully met. Conkling is decidedly the favorite of the President, who is openly advocating his nomination. Bristow is daily gaining strength, though he is hated in administration circlers.

RENO.

A certain pompous judge fined several lawyers $10 each for contempt of court. After they had paid their fines, a steady going old attorney walked gravely up, to the bench and laid down a $10 bill. 'What is that for?' inquired the judge. 'For contempt your honor.' Why, I have not fined you for contempt.' 'I know that,' said the attorney, 'but I want you to understand I cherish a secret contempt for this court all the time, and I am willing to pay for it.'

That Radicalism in South Carolina is considered a den of thieves, is not confined to the Southern States alone. The Cincinnati Commercial a leading Republican paper of the West, upon hearing that the South Carolina delegation would come to the Cincinnati Convention unpledged, remarks with a true and withering sarcasm: 'Here will be a fine opening for the candidate with the longest purse.'

Babcock, Whitely, Nettleship and others were on Saturday indicted for conspiracy in the safe Burglary case. Remember that Babcock was Grants trusted and familiar friend, and that he still retains him in office. Indicted again for felony! What do you think of an administration that makes favorites of such creatures?

A petition signed by three thousand citizens of St. Louis has been handed the President asking the pardon of Collector McGuire. Grant said he couldn't, as the democratic House might 'investigate.'

Such is the overwhelming evidence against Babcock that a friend said to the President, unless he at once ignored Bab he would be badly smirched.

The Boston Herald says if Blaine is nominated, a third ticket will be put in the field as sure as fate.

The Brooklyn Argus says: The President says there is no law prohibiting his running for a third term. And he's right about it. Neither is there any law prohibiting a man's tickling the hind legs of a strange mule with a rat tile.

Grant's old home, Galena, went Democratic at the recent election.

Ex-Attorney General Williams was examined to-day (April 20th) by the House Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Justice, testified that he paid out of the Secret Service fund $30,000 for election purposes; the money was paid by the direct order of the President.

Roundout, N. Y., April 20.—The strikers yesterday paraded through the streets about 400 strong, but made no disturbance except at South Ulster and Delaware railroad, where the men were driven away from their work. The strikers also visited the cement quarries, and asked the laborers, who are receiving one dollar a day, to join them. The latter refused.

Charleston, W. Va., April 20.—The negroes have not left Brownstone, and the rioters have informed Contractor Dull that unless the negroes are sent away they would hang all of them and him too. The sheriff, with one hundred men, has gone to Brownstone.

Cincinnati, April 20.—Returns from 57 points in Ohio as to the condition of the crops indicate that peaches are totally destroyed or badly injured. Of the other fruits, 15 points report that the indications are favorable for good crops, 21 fair and 21 badly injured.

Omaha, April 20.—The State Convention democratic, was held at Lincoln yesterday. The resolutions adopted were for hard money and reform. The delegates elected to the National Convention are known to be for Tilden unanimously.

Washington April 20.—The Naval and Post-Office Appropriation bills have been completed, with a reduction of $8,000,000 in the two appropriations.

Judge Kerr went down on Saturday to hold the Court at Wayne this week.

Remember the Township Meeting on Saturday the 29th inst. Let there be a full meeting of the real representatives of public opinion and of the genuine Democratic element of the township.

Warning to Young Men.

We learn that on last Sunday several men went to a place in the Shakerag settlement of Person County where whiskey was sold. While there they all got drunk and only one of them was able to get home that night, and while his family and and friends were out looking for the others the house took fire and when the family returned all that could be found of him was a few bones burned to a crisp.

What a terrible thing it must have been to be ushered into eternity in such a condition.

We committed an error last week in stating that Mr. Jones fixed and repaired the town clock. Mr. Josiah Turner (Sadler) is the man who has kept the clock in such good running order since last May. Friend Joe is almost as good on a clock as he is in making a saddle and all who have dealt with him will know he needs no higher praise.

Mr. Jones merely painted the face of the clock.

A lady correspondent writes to know what nation furnishes the best domestics; in reply to which we say that although we are not very well posted in such matters we feel that we can safely pronounce in favor of our own country. Newark, N. J; furnishes the best. They are called the "Light-Running Domestic" and are to be found at any office or agency of the "Domestic" Sewing Machine Company.

We heartily welcome on our exchange list, the Granville Democrat, the first no. of which is just to hand. It is well printed newsy, and thorough, and we cordially recommend it to the Conservatives and other good citizens of the State.

PERSON COURT.

His Honor, Judge Kerr, opened Court on Monday at 11 o'clock. Of his charge to the Grand Jury it is only necessary to say it was delivered in his usual forcible and perspicuous style.

The dockets both civil and criminal were small. Mr. Strudwick the Solicitor showed his fitness for the position by making six additions to the Republican hotel in two hours on Tuesday, thus depriving Sam Barnett of three votes for the next Legislature (three of the convicts were minors.)

No cases of importance on the civil docket were tried.

Court adjourned on Wednesday afternoon.

The people had a meeting on Tuesday to make arrangements for holding their County Convention and appointing delegates to the State and Congressional Conventions. We learn the delegates were instructed to support Montford McGehee for Governor. Of all the gentlemen yet spoken of in connection with that office none would add more dignity and grace to it than Mr. McGehee.

There was universal complaint of the destruction of tobacco plants.

Ticket Office Robbed.

On Saturday night during the absence of the agent at supper the ticket office of the N. C. Depot at this place was entered by false keys or picking the lock, and one of the ticket cases carried off and all the rest broken open. The one carried off was found the next morning west of the ware house broken open and the tickets scattered about in wild confusion making it a whole days work to rearrange them. A large number were stolen. Suspicion attached to a negro boy who had been lounging about the depot all the previous day, and the conductor of the freight train passing West at 1 o'clock Sunday morning was notified to be on the look out. At Mebanesville the suspected party entered the train, and when called upon for his ticket presented one of the stolen ones. He was at once taken in charge and when the train reached the Shops he was put in custody of a white man, who suffered him to escape, and he is now at large.

Proceedings of county Grange next week.

Dramatic Entertainment.

The ladies of this place propose on Tuesday night of Court week to give a musical entertainment to be followed by a supper as a ladies contribution to the University of North Carolina.

The ladies enter upon this undertaking with the assurance of success founded upon past experience. Their entertainments have always been artistic in the highest degree, because they have always commanded high musical talent. Now, in this case they have the aid of Mr. de La Croix whose dramatic excellence is only surpassed by his skill as a musician. The talent of our ladies is conspicuous and their energy and enthusiasm unbounded, and when it is considered that they offer their services and their talent as a free will offering to the cause of education, and in aid of the State University so lately rehabilitated in its old garments it is right that men should come forward with equal enthusiasm to second the generous and unselfish work of the ladies, with the assurance, that for whatever object they spend their money they will be more than compensated even by the pleasures of the entertainment.

Let the exhibition have the undivided support of our citizens of the town and the county.

Change of Pulpits.

On Sunday last, the Rev. Mr. Norman of Person St. Methodist Church Raleigh exchanged pulpits with the Rev. Mr. Cole of this place.

The Rev. W. P. Bynum, the newly ordained Rector of St. Barnabas Church, Greensboro exchanged with the Rev. C. J. Curtis of St. Matthew's, and preached here a most admirable sermon. He bids fair to rise high in the Church. He is a clear, vigorous and original thinker, a polished and cultivated writer, and is most graceful and impressive in his delivery.

The Rev. Mr. Fitzgerald, lately preaching alternately at Little River, Eno, and Hillsboro Churches, has taken the charge of the Church at Durham, and will alternate between Durham and Hillsboro; the the other Churches to be provided.

The Rev. Mr. Currie will hereafter supply the Presbyterian Churches at Mebanesville and Bethlehem. He will remove from Fairfield to Mebanesville.

For the Recorder.

MR. EDITOR:—In compliance with instructions from the Democratic Executive Committee, of Orange County, the citizens of Little River Township, held a meeting at Caldwell, on the 19th for the purpose of appointing delegates to the County Convention which will convene in Hillsboro, on the 13th of May 1876.

On motion of L. W. Hall, the meeting was organized by electing Capt. Jno F. Lyon, Chairman.

On motion of Wm. Turner, Jno L. Brower was elected Secretary.

The Chairman then in his usual impressive, lively, but earnest style, stated the object of the meeting, with timely and appropriate remarks upon the general topics of the day, the importance of the occasion and the necessity of prompt and immediate action preparation for the approaching campaign, in which he said it was the duty of the Democratic party to bring forward the best and most available men, and that, in his opinion, it devolved upon every conservative to vote for the nominees. That in unity and harmony there is strength, and by a long pull, a strong pull and a pull altogether we will roll up at the election, a conservative majority surpassing all conception.

On motion the Chairman appointed the following to attend the County Convention.

On motion a Committee of three viz. S. H. Jordan A. L. Holden and J. L. Brower were appointed to draft resolutions expressing the sentiments of the meeting.

During the absence of the Committee Dr. Berry entertained the meeting with a brief speech which we did not hear.

The Committee then submitted the following resolutions which were adopted:

Whereas, while we are willing to acquiesce in and abide by the decision of the Co. Convention and cheerfully support the men nominated by said Convention, as well as the State and district Conventions, we deem it a privilege to manifest a preference by recommending the men of our choice.

Therefore, 1st Resolved, That we recommend the Hon. Z. B. Vance for Gov.

2nd Resolved, That we endorse the acts of C. E. Parish in the Senate of N. C. and recommend him for the Senate.

3rd Resolved, That we recommend Jones Watson and Dr John Jno. Berry, for the Commons.

4th Resolved, That we recommend N. P. Hall, Capt. Jno F. Lyon, A. L. Holden Wm. K. Parish, and Foust Morrow, for Commissioners.

5th Resolved, That we recommend Thos H. Hughes for Sheriff, John Laws for Register, and David Parks for Treasurer.

On motion the Secretary, was requested to send the proceedings of this meeting to the Recorder and Plaid for publication.

STATE NEWS.

Greensboro Patriot: There is an old gentleman named Hutchison, living in Stokes county about 100 years of age. He never was in town in his life, nor on a jury, nor had a case in court, nor was summoned as a witness. He don't know one letter from another nor one figure from another. He is a batchelor, has two sisters and one brother living, a brother dead; neither ever married. He is a well to do farmer, never trades horses, will buy one and keep him as long as he (the horse) lives. If any person asks him a question he will answer it the next time he meets that person. He never makes anything for sale and never buys anything that can be made on the farm.

The Watchman says: A young friend writes us this: "There was a big snake that used under a factory, and there was a man that killed it. He didn't kill it dead. And he brought it out and laid it in the road; and it opened its mouth and there run out 42 young ones. And then all the factory hands saw it and a heap of other folks. And the snake opened its mouth and the littles ones run back into the snake. They were about the size of broom straws. It was the biggest snake that was in the river. It was about the size of a man's thigh and about 5 feet long.'

The Watchman says: Tuesday and Wednesday of this week were very decidedly cool. We had frost both mornings, but the heaviest yesterday. It killed beans, potato tops, and a few buds on grape vines.

The Polkton Ansonian regrets to learn from Mr. W. N. Parker, of, that county that his new mill, on Rocky river, together with his cotton gin and saw mill, was entirely destroyed by fire on Sunday morning, the 2nd inst. He is positively certain that it was fired after daylight. No insurance. Loss about $1,000.

The Graham Gleaner says that quite a number of pretty young ladies and gay and festive young gentlemen regaled themselves upon the light fantastic toe at Company Shops on last Friday evening. The hop was given at the hotel under the auspicies of Mr. and Mrs. Bobo.

The Raleigh News says that town took Easter holiday and went fishing. Gov. Brogden cut him a pole and left for Neuse river with Messrs. Bain and Jenkins of the Treasury Department, John G. Williams, the banker, John Blake, assistant bank cashier, and last and best Rev. Dr Pritchard.

The Alamance Gleaner says that last Sunday as Dr. John L. Williamson was returning to Graham from a visit to a patient, one of his buggy shafts became detached and fell about the heels of his horse, frightening him, when he made a sudden dash and threw the doctor with great violence from the buggy to the ground, inflicting very serious injuries, but not dangerous. The doctor's head and face are severely bruised, and an ugly cut on one hand.

Lieut-Gov R. F. Armfield has been chosen by the Ladies of the Statesville Memorial Association to deliver the oration at the coming celebration in that place.

Robert Moore, of Davidson county died while going from his field to his house. He did not complain until two minutes before he died.

Town Election.

We suggest the following gentlemen for the various town officers to be filled next Monday:

Mayor—John M. Blackwood.

Commissioners—Henry K. Nash, David Parks, John Jordan, David Anderson, Jas Y. Whitted, John Cheek, Thomas Webb.

A VOTER.

POPULARITY.

It is self evident fact that unless a person possesses sterling worth he will not have the esteem of his fellow-men. It is true, that for a time he may deceive, but eventually his faults will be exposed.

This is applicable also to articles recommended to the confidence of purchasers. For a brief period by false commendations and glittering exterior, they impose on the people, but as soon as tested they are cast aside. The test of ten years has proven the instrinsic worth of DR. TUFF'S HAIR DYE, and to-day no preparation enjoys greater popularity. From year to year the demand for it has increased, and now it is in general use both in this and foreign countries. No stronger proof of its value could be given.

THE PEOPLE WANT PROOF

There is no medicine prescribed by physicians, or sold by Druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtue as ROSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP for severe Coughs, Colds settled on the Breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. A proof of that fact is that any person afflicted, can get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try its superior effect before buying the regular size at 75 cents. It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderful cures are astonishing everyone that use it. Three doses will relieve any case, Try It. Sold by Dr. O. Hooker Druggist.

The Leap Year Green-un!

He sent her a billet, likewise a boquet,
(bokay)
I cannot divine what possessed him to do it!
The lady responded, and that right away,
By sending as answer, a vinegar crane;
So strange a return, gave the green-un a scare.
He couldn't make out what she meant by that eve,
P. S. Our 'forclosure', who is a cunning dog,
A married man, and knows 'what's what!'
Sez it meant bizuls! H. B.

DOGS! DOGS!!

We had just made a little start in the direction of sheep raising, and a few mornings since a message came that the dogs had been among the flock. We hastened to the scene of slaughter and found to our deep mortification that all of a flock of 14 or 15 save 4 had been killed the previous night by worthless curs.

We tried to feel submissive under this sad misfortune as we looked upon the lifeless flock lying here and there over the pasture; but could not help seriously wishing that the members of a State Legislature destitute of the moral firmness to give protection to this important branch of industry by the enactment of suitable dog laws, might at least be doomed to cotton coats beaver hats and linen pants, until shivering limbs and aching hands might teach them lessons of wisdom which they can nowhere learn save in the school of cold experience.

Let us suppose a case. A citizen had been notified of the sheep killing propensity of his dogs, but coolly replied that he wouldn't give his dog for all the sheep in the community.

In law we suppose we would have to prove first that his dogs had killed sheep, and before an ordinary county squire, that he did kill one sheep, and lastly damages out of the defendant if he had anything over and above a homestead.

The above, we think, would be the ruling of many a county official in the good old North State. We confess we are cured of our passion for sheep raising.—Prof. W. T. Walters in Bibical Recorder.

HOME INTERESTS.

JONNY CAKE.

Two cups Indian meal, half cup of flour, two cups of sour milk, one teaspoonful melted butter, one teaspoonful of soda, one egg, and a little salt.

BEE STINGS.

Any absorbent will give relief. But perhaps nothing is more effectual than lean raw meat. The sting of a bee or wasp may be almost instantly relieved by it. It is said to cure the bite of a rattlesnake, and to relieve erysipelas.

SOFT GINGERBREAD.

One and one half cups of sour milk, two cups of molasses, three pints of flour, two large teaspoonfuls of soda, one cup of shortening (clarified meat dripping will do as well as butter or lard), a little salt and a teaspoonful of ginger.

DUTCH PANCAKES.

One egg, one large spoonful sugar, one cup of milk, two tablespoonfuls melted butter, one teaspoonful cream-tartar, half teaspoonful soda, a little salt; add flour enough to make thick. Bake half hour; slice and eat warm with butter.

TOMATO SOUP.

Six tomatoes pared and sliced; pour over them a quart of boiling water; add half teaspoonful of soda. When it stops foaming, put in a pint of sweet milk, and season exactly as for oysters. Serve as soon as it begins to boil. Too much boiling or being allowed to stand long after cooking spoils it. If fresh tomatoes are out of season, canned ones will do as well.

MUSH BISCUIT.

One quart of milk (water will do), a piece of lard the size of an egg, one tablespoonful of salt; put on the fire; when boiling, add sufficient corn meal to make a rather stiff mush. When this is milk warm, and one cup of yeast and sufficient flour to make into dough. Work well; in the morning make up into cakes; let rise about fifeen or twenty minutes, and then bake.

WHOOPING COUGH.

A leading physician writes as follows regarding experience with whooping cough: I think it may be useful to suggest a remedy which I have found beneficial—bromide of potassium. It allays the violence of the paroxysms, and cures in a few weeks, sometimes less. I generally combine it with the bicarbonate, and with tincture of hyoscyamus in camphor mixture.

DOUGHNUTS.

Two eggs, one cup of sugar, one pint of sour milk, a scant teaspoonful of soda, two tablespoonfuls of rich cream or one of butter; season with cinnamon of nutmeg according to taste. In making doughnuts, use as little soda as possible, as it gives them a tendency to absorb the grease; they should also be mixed as soft as possible, using just enough flour to prevent their sticking to the board.

Hon. John Shattuck, a noted butter dairyman of Chenango county, New York, said at the late convention of the New York State Dairymen's Association, that he had found the color on the inside of the ear to be one infallible guide in the selection of a good butter cow. If the skin on the inside of the ear is a rich yellow color, the cow was sure to give a good quality of milk—that is, milk rich in butter. He said in all his experience he had never known this sign to fail.

Don't burn the mouth of your horse for "lampas"—it is nonsense, to say nothing of its cruelty. Read the following by one of our most distinguished veterinary surgeons:

The symptoms of this imaginary disease are, the horse quids his hay, or refuses his food. It is most common in young horses; the groom looks into the mouth of the animal, and perceiving the bars to be almost on a level with the incisor teeth, he pronounces his charge to have lampas, and takes the poor creature to be burnt within its mouth accordingly.

It is true the animal has recovered its appetite by the time the effects of the burn have passed away, but so it would have done had no hot iron been cruelly employed. The fact is, the young animal is then cutting a molar tooth and a day or two having elapsed all the fever and pain occasioned by the process would have been over. No man should allow his horse to be burnt for the lampas. It is a torturing, an idle and a wanton operation, and tends rather to do harm than good.

If an old horse be reported as having the lampas, examine his mouth, with his grinders, for, to a certainty, the cause is to be sought in another part of the body than the roof of the mouth. It is sometimes indicative of a disordered stomach.

Advice Gratis, to farmers. Raise chickens and eggs and attend to the vegetable garden, for the summer will be hard one. Reduce expenses and curtail in everything not absolutely necessary. Get up early and work steady. Trade off surplus dogs and give the food which they would consume to the pigs. Hire as little help as possible, and depend on self more.

A widow informed a friend at the funeral that she couldn't tell whether she would wear mourning or not until her husband's will was read.

A wag, seeing a lady at a party with a very low necked dress and bare arms expressed his profound admiration by saying that she outstripped the the entire company.

A Brooklyn girl is filled with joy because she has achieved her Centennial offer of marriage. Ninety-nine victims had been led to the block, but she will marry the Centennial chap.

DR. WADE'S "LIVER CORRECTOR" AND CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA. Free from Alcoholic Stimulants.

Among the many discoveries of valuable remedies for Dyspepsia, none stand higher than "WADE'S LIVER CORRECTOR."

Read the Following Testimonials:

Berea P O, Granville N C Mar. 10 '74.

Dr. Wade: Dear Sir—Have been afflicted with Liver Disease 3 or 4 years, which at times amounted to derangement. When in Baltimore last November, I procured one bottle of Liver Corrector. I now consider myself well.

Yours, respectfully, ISAAC N. DAY, of Day & Meadows.

Prof. Moorman, Emeritus, of Washington University, Md. now Resident Physician, White Sulphur Springs, says:

Dr. Wade's Liver Corrector and Dyspepsia Cure is one of the very best remedies for Dyspepsia I have ever used.'

Dr. Jones, a prominent physician in Virginia, who has prescribed it for two years, says:

'I can find no better remedy for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint than Wade's Liver Corrector.'

Col. Goode, a prominent and well known gentleman of Va. says:

I keep it regularly in my family, and would not be without it.

Mr John A McArthur, County Treasurer of Duplin N C says: Wade's Liver Corrector has done me more good, and given me more relief in Dyspepsia, than any medicine I ever took, &c.

Prof. Noel, of College of Physicians and Surgeons of Baltimore, and a distinguished practitioner in that city, prescribe and uses it in his own family and says: It is the best remedy for Dyspepsia with Torpid Liver and Constipation of Bowels I ever knew.

Baltimore Sun says: Dr Wade's Liver Corrector is prescribed by our best physicians, for Dyspepsia and Liver Diseases, and we advise any of our friends suffering with such, to give it a trial.

Catholic Mirror says: We recommend Wade's Liver Corrector to all who are suffering with any chronic disease of Liver. We can speak of its merits as we have tried it.

Dr Walker, a celebrated physician of W Va., pronounces. Wade's Liver Corrector the best remedy extant for Dyspepsia in all its forms.
